

SER 292: Field Experience and Seminar II

This course is a continuation of SER 291 and continues the student's agency-based Human Services internship placement and the accompanying classroom-based and/or Web-based discussion seminar. Prerequisite: SER 291 or permission of the program director. A minimum of 12 and a maximum of 16 contact hours per week (total - 175 supervised agency hours) in an approved fieldwork agency and up to 2 hours of seminar/discussion each week. Instructional Support Fee applies. 6 credits Spring

Course Student Learning Outcomes

Students will continue to learn to successfully function as an entry-level professional human services worker in an agency setting chosen according to their future career and/or educational interests. Both their agency internship duties and responsibilities and the concurrent seminar discussion activities are presumed to reflect higher levels of competency than in SER 91 first seminar of this 2-semester sequence (for degree students).
